MAYOR OPPOSES KINGSTON ACADEMY

In Letter to Commissioner Finley he Advocates "Kingston High School" as Official Title for New School.

Mayor Canfield has written the following interesting letter to Dr. John H. Finley, state commissioner of education at Albany, setting forth the reasons why the new high school building should be known as "Kingston High School" and not under the name of "Kingston Academy" or by any other title.

The letter in full is as follows and speaks for itself:

September 9th, 1915.
Dr. John H. Finley,
State Commissioner of Education,
Albany, N. Y.

My Dear Sir:—
I am informed that the question of officially naming the new high school of our city has either been referred to you or that it will shortly be brought to your attention for action upon your part.

I believe that its future name should be officially determined as soon as possible in order that the officials and citizens of the city, and the scholars seeking and receiving education in this school, will know the proper term to use when referring to it.

I use the words "future name" and "officially determined" in a discriminating sense because the school has already been named unofficially and unwittingly by the officials and by the people of the city.

In 1913, the Chamber of Commerce issued a booklet with a picture of the proposed new school and below the picture are the words "Kingston High School" (in process of erection). At the same time and ever since the press of the city has always referred to it as the high school of Kingston High School. The people in discussing it have used the same terms. I believe I can state without being subject to contradiction that at no time or at no place, or in no article of the press, has it been styled Kingston Academy. The various resolutions of the board of education and the ordinances of the Common Council, and the city of Kingston directing the issuance of bonds to defray the cost of purchasing the lot and constructing the building and equipping it, refer to it as the "New High School".

The bonds issued under the seals of the board of education of the city and of the city itself amounting to upwards of three hundred thousand dollars certify that the bonds are for the purpose of erecting a "new high school" or of equipping it, or for providing the ground therefor. This, it will be seen that the words, "high school" almost instinctively suggested themselves and were seized upon by the officials and the people by a sort of blind sense.

It, therefore, appears that the officials and the people, and civic organizations and the press have already determined and decided to their satisfaction that the given name of the school should be "high school". No one can seriously dispute the fact that its surname must be and is "Kingston". The union of the two names given us its full name of Kingston High School.

In considering that it should be so named, I am not unmindful of the golden past of Kingston Academy extending back upwards of one hundred and thirty years, and of the silvery past of Kingston Academy extending back upwards of thirty years. The fortunate persons who attended those academies came in contact with teachers and instructors of lofty and noble minds. Those teachers developed the latent capacities within the thousands of scholars who sought knowledge at these academies, and they moulded real men and women, and the fruits of their work will ripen each year. Those schools as academies have had their day and their power and their fame. Their names will not be fading names, nor will their works be fading works. Their glory will die not; but the echo of their past activities will resound as long as Kingston lives, and the lessons that have been taught and learned in these academies will never perish, but will go on as long as the subject education exists.

However, old things must ever be supplanted by the new. It leaves nothing to mourn over, because the death of the old brings the birth of the new which is so much stronger and more active than the old. Kingston Academy cannot be resurrected and renewed and refashioned into the new high school. The red brick building on the triangular one-half acre of land was the heart and the mind and the soul of Kingston Academy. If it were thrust in the educational crucible of regeneration it would never reappear in the form and substance of our new high school. No, Kingston Academy has received the fate of all, after having been the educational architect of some of the greatest characters and personages of this state.

Anyway, the word academy has come to have a special sense during the past generation. It means, as I take it, an institution for instruction, more than it does a school for instruction. It is employed more by private military and other schools maintained under private or corporate institutions where the pupils are instructed in some special science or art, such as the United States Military Academy at West Point. In the various cities of the state, the schools teaching the highest grade of common school education have changed from the term "academy" to the name "high school".

As to Kingston there is an additional reason why the name to be adopted should be Kingston High School. The City of Kingston as I have mentioned has had two academies. The new high school is the successor of both, and is practically the result of the fusion or unification of the two academies. On May 30th, 1914, the cornerstone of the new high school was laid. At that time I spoke and I said in part:

"In 1872, the villages of Kingston and Rondout joined hands, and there was a fusion of the two municipalities that had existed separately in the community for years and years, into one city. The new city thereupon built the city hall for the use of the city and its officers, and to emphasize and solidify the consolidation. There was a union of the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the two villages. A state of oneness did not exist and prevail, however in all respects. There was no unification of the educational branch of the government. Thirty years later the different school districts were consolidated, but there still remained the two academies. The existence of these two academies has acted as a wedge to a certain extent in preventing the final cementing of Kingston and Rondout. The two schools, with the attendant rivalry in athletics has always caused a strong school spirit and feeling for their own school to spring up and grow in the minds and hearts of the respective scholars in each school, and that feeling has more often than otherwise remained with these scholars and even continued to grow after they had left school and had become citizens. In the near future there will be complete unity in the educational branches of our municipal government. The act of erecting this structure involves the simplest example in fractions. One-half plus one-half equals one. Our high school department has been divided into halves and Kingston is now resorting to addition, and is adding and centralizing those two incomplete parts into one complete high school. The past says that it was divided; but the present says that it shall be united in the discernible future."

"Old illustrious Kingston and glorious Ulster, we bid you both good-bye as academies. We shall always regard you and your memory both with profound respect and affection. Kingston high school to be, we now salute and address and appeal to you. May you send the children of Kingston out into the world with a complete golden chain of education linked to true manhood and true womanhood. May it be such an education that, standing in the roadway of conditions then present and existing, they will be able to use their own eyes, ears, hands, tongues and minds, as to so shape the hill of future possibilities that they will be able to safely ascend it. May it be such an education that they will not only be able to force ahead themselves, but that they will be enabled to make it easy and possible for others to follow."

In consideration of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, I respectfully submit that the new high school should be named "Kingston High School."

Respectfully,
PALMER CANFIELD, JR.,
Mayor of the City of Kingston.

ALBANY CAR STRIKE SETTLED

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Sept. 10.—Cars of the United Traction Company, Albany, Troy, Cohoes, Waterbury and Rensselaer began running this morning, following a settlement of the trouble between the 1,200 employees of the company in the cities named. The men agreed to resume work and to leave the matter in dispute to arbitration. The arbitrators named at the conference are Mayor Cornelius P. Burns of Troy; Judge William E. Woollard of Albany; and Lynn J. Arnold, an Albany newspaper proprietor.

The employees went on strike last Monday morning after their demand for a change in the system of disciplining men had been refused. They insisted that men brought up on charges should have the right to appear by counsel and to have sufficient time to answer the charges. The men contended that they were disciplined without being given a chance to defend themselves.

The company refused to make any change excepting to have all cases on which there was a question sent to the general manager for settlement. This was not satisfactory to the men. For four days the people of Albany, Troy, Cohoes, Waterbury and Rensselaer walked or else rode in the jitney busses that sprang up like mushrooms. About 300 of them have been in use during the time the cars were tied up.

Mayors of the cities, the chamber of commerce and citizens generally tried in vain to get the company and the men together, but not until early this morning, soon after the arrival of William E. Fitzgerald, chairman of the executive council of the international organization, from Detroit, was anything that would lead to a settlement determined upon.

To Mayor Cornelius P. Burns of Troy is due the credit of bringing about the settlement. He told the conference this morning that many of the big stores in Albany and Troy faced ruin unless the cars were started.

What may prove to be fatal injuries were sustained by Samuel Peyer of Hudson street on Thursday afternoon while bathing at Bath Beach at Kingston Point. With others he was bathing there during the afternoon. Shortly after 2 o'clock he took a dive and must have struck his head on a rock as he did not reappear for some time. His friends searched for him and brought the body to the surface. Peyer was unconscious and could not stand. He was helped to the bank and Dr. A. Stern summoned. The physician found that the spine is affected and the injuries may prove serious. The injured lad, who is a catcher on the Ulster Academy baseball team, was taken to the Kingston City Hospital for further examination. He continued unconscious for some time.

ARABIC NOTE NOT SATISFACTORY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Sept. 10.—The state department has begun preparation of a reply to the German note on the Arabic note and the German suggestion that the submarine commander was entirely within his rights in torpedoing the liner and also the contention that Germany is not under obligations to grant indemnity in the matter. This note will be presented to President Wilson for his approval as soon as completed.

It was intimated in official circles that there is no intention of consulting further with Ambassador von Bernstorff on the subject. The note when approved will be handed to the German foreign office by Ambassador Gerard to whom it will be cabled.

President Wilson, it is understood, takes the position that the Arabic note and the German submarine commander's claims are entirely at variance with the physical facts in the matter. The Arabic had been torpedoed far astern in a bow section, which had been trying to escape the case had she been the submarine.

The Napanoch postoffice, located in the heart of the village, was broken into between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning by yeggs who blew open the office safe with nitro glycerine and got away with a small amount of stamps and money. As far as known the safe crackers left no clue behind.

The robbery was not discovered until about 6 o'clock this morning when the postmaster, Henry Hornbeck, went to the office and opened the safe. As he entered the door he found the safe blown open and stamps scattered around on the floor. Entrance had been secured to the office by breaking in the back door.

The postoffice is a one story frame building and is located in the most densely settled part of the village. Across the street from the office is the large general store of Hornbeck Brothers, one of the firm also being the postmaster, and almost directly across the street is located Shanley's Hotel.

Several neighbors when they heard of the robbery said that early this morning they had heard a noise like a gun being exploded but they had not been curious enough to investigate.

Apparently, however, something had frightened the yeggs while at work as they left several of their tools behind them in front of the safe. A medium sized one and probably did not require an extraordinary large charge of powder to force the door.

Just how much booty the robbers got away with is not positively known but it is not thought to be a very large amount. As no one seems to have seen the robbers it is not known how many were concerned in the job but it is likely that it was more than one man.

While all of Chris Winne's friends, induced in one or more guesses as to what Mr. Winne intended doing with the police dog that was shipped to him on Thursday at the Stuyvesant Hotel from the Montclair, N. J. training school for police dogs, none of his friends guessed right. The problem which engrossed the attention of the friends all day until Mr. Winne's arrival was finally settled when he explained that the dog was not his but was the property of a friend. Later in the day the dog was delivered to Mr. Winne by his friend, Mr. Speer of Woodstock. In such a simple manner are some of the most difficult problems sometimes solved.

ALLIES TO FLOAT $500,000,000 LOAN

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 10.—Within half an hour after the six members of the Anglo-French Financial Commission to America had left the Red Star liner Lapland today the International News Service was informed that if the commission wants to borrow $500,000,000 for the allies in the United States the loan will be granted.

The information was authoritative coming from one of the leading financiers of America. He requested, however, that his name should not be used.

The members of the commission were met at quarantine by J. P. Morgan and his partner, Henry P. Davison. The Americans went to meet the Lapland on the Morgan yacht. The visiting commissioners left the ship and boarded the yacht, which then sped up the bay.

Mr. Morgan and Davison gave a cordial greeting to the commissioners who are Baron Reading, Lord Chief Justice of England; Sir Edward Hopkins of London, managing director of the London City and Midland Bank; Sir Henry Babbington Smith, Basil R. Blackett, of the British treasury, and Octave Homberg and Ernst Mallet of France.

Baron Reading, the head of the commission, explained the mission of the bankers as follows: "The object of the mission is to consult with American bankers and others as to the best means to be adopted for the regulation of exchange between New York, London and Paris, in order that the currency may suffer as little as possible during the course of the war. Mr. day committee will act as secretary and the committee will make formal statements each morning to the press."

The commissioners were accompanied by their wives and immediately they were landing from the Lapland, no one went to the hotel. The day's business will be held in the morning at the hotel. The commissioners will be met by the famous New York in Mr. Morgan's famous library.

The bankers' wives were as usual on the Lapland. The Lapland was a steamship left Liverpool on September 1. Two of the ship's torpedo boat destroyers of the British navy conveyed the vessel on to the Irish coast.

Another Arrest
In addition to Henry Myers of Pine Hill, Constable George Oulton of Fleischmanns was also arrested on Thursday on a charge of assaulting Anthony D. Hungerford, Jr., and being held by Justice of the Peace Grand Jury Oulton and Myers were both brought to Kingston during the afternoon. Before being taken to jail, they were allowed to visit the offices of Brinnier & Canfield, whom they retained to defend them in the event of their indictment by the next grand jury. Hungerford will be at the Benedictine Sanatorium for some time. His condition is as good as can be expected considering the nature and extent of his injuries.

APPEAL TO VOTE FOR NEW CONSTITUTION

Committee of Delegates of Which Local Man is a Member Gives Reasons Why Amendments Should be Ratified.

Albany, Sept. 10.—The text of the appeal to the people prepared by Seth Low, Alphonso T. Clearwater, Jacob Gould Schurman, Morgan J. O'Brien and Ledyard P. Hale, delegates to the constitutional convention, is a recommendation that the amendments adopted be ratified by the voters this fall.

"We earnestly recommend all of these proposals to the favorable consideration of the electors of the state, believing that their adoption will result in a very great improvement in the government of the state and its civil divisions, and thus promote the welfare of all of its inhabitants," is one of the pertinent sentences of the document.

It is also set forth that such modifications had been recommended by the delegates to the convention as deemed essential to the improvement of the government of the state and to remedy the most striking deficiencies of the existing system.

The ten most important amendments are a reorganization of the state into seventeen civil departments; providing against the legislature considering local matters and private claims; a regulation of the methods of making appropriations; improvements in the method of contracting debts and establishing serial sinking fund bonds; home rule for cities; giving authority to the legislature to provide for any county optional forms of government; with the approval of the electors of any county; reform in civil procedure; control over the assessment of taxes and of the natural resources of the state; extending the benefits of the workmen's compensation act to embrace occupational diseases and regulating or prohibiting by legislative enactment manufacturing in tenement houses.

The address then deals with the other amendments made to the constitution upon which the people must pass, numbering 26.

"We leave unchanged," say the document, "the provisions of the present constitution requiring the common support of a system of free public schools, wherein all children, rich or poor, may be educated, and indirectly, the use of the property, nance of any state, directly wholly or in part of the aid of maintenance of any school or institution."

It is also pointed out that the amendment has been made in the case any proposed amendment to the constitution shall be adopted by their house of the legislature on the first Tuesday following such adoption, the two houses shall convene in joint session for its consideration and thereafter the proposal shall be considered and acted upon by the two houses separately. Such proposal shall not be passed unless it has lain five days upon the desks of the members.

When submitted to the people, this fall, the amended constitution will not be presented as a single document. There will be two ballots for each voter. The first will contain the propositions relative to home rule, taxation and re-apportionment, the second the remainder of the propositions favorably acted upon by the delegates.

After two days of conference the committee selected to determine what propositions if any should be submitted separately, decided upon the above plan.

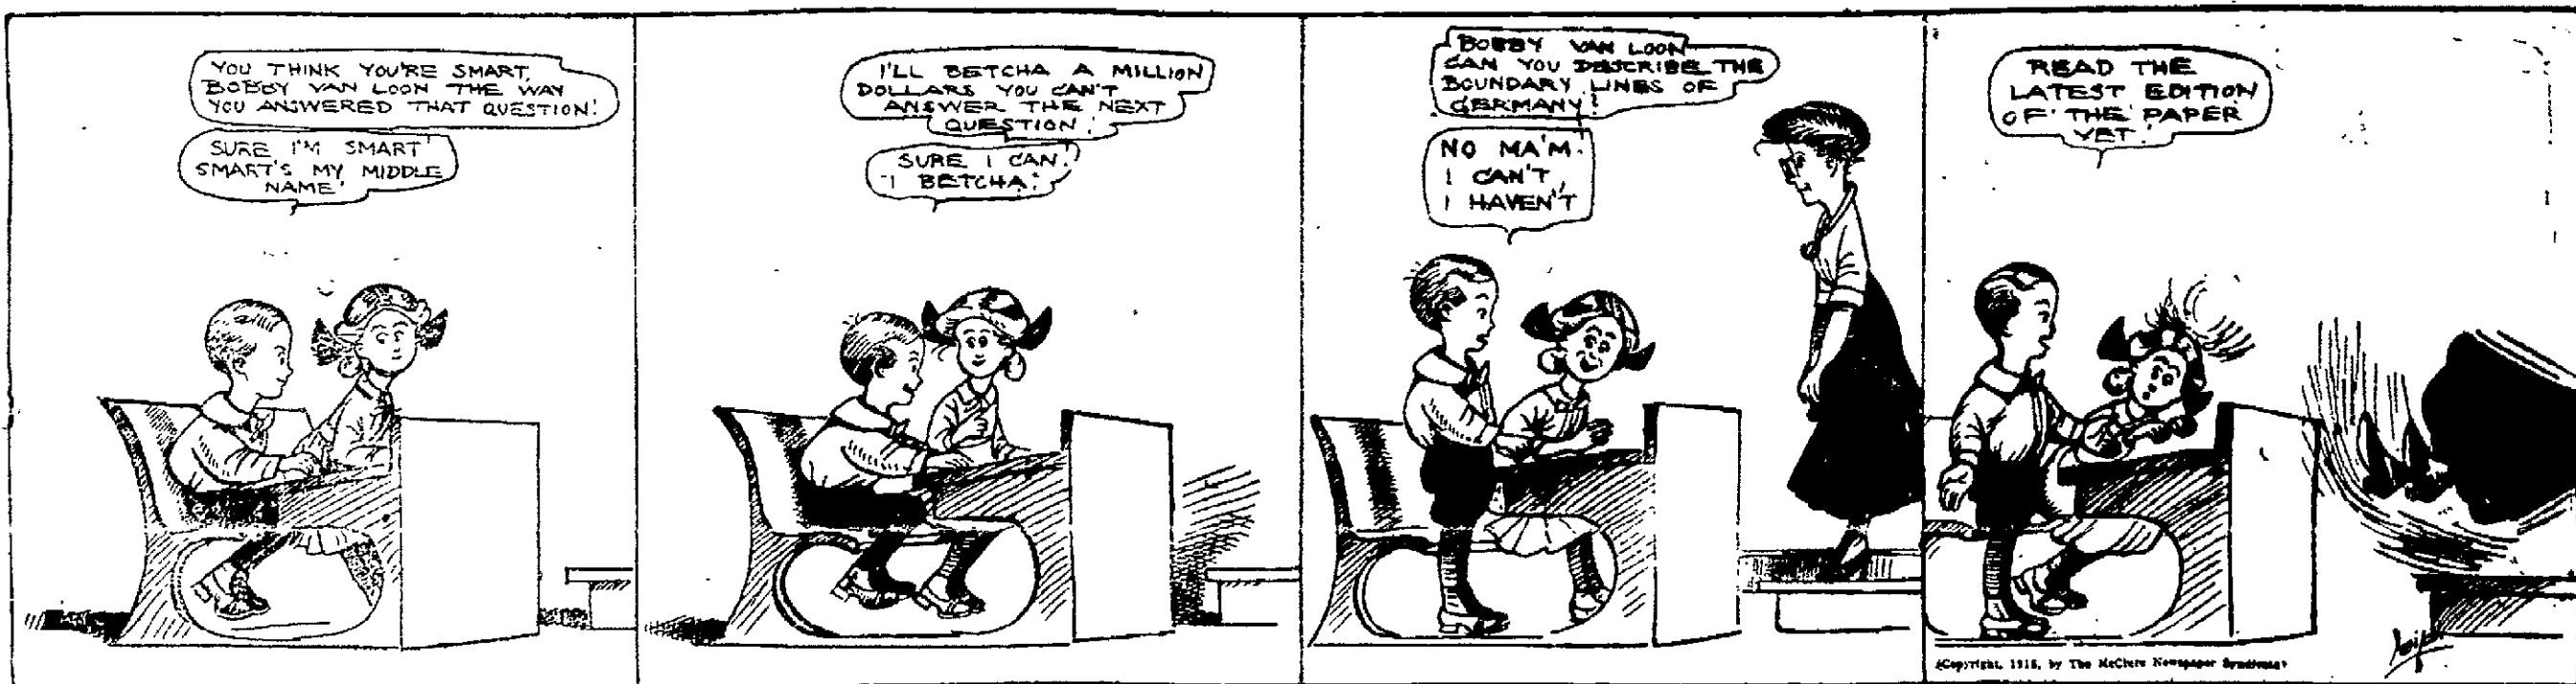

There will be two propositions which were provided for by the legislature, the first relative to equal suffrage, the second whether there shall be a bond issue of $27,000,000 for large canal purposes.

When the delegates met today the clerk immediately took steps to see to it that all were present for the final work of the convention. After the roll had been called and the sergeant-at-arms dispatched to round up absentees, the reading of the amended constitution begun last night, was continued. This occupied over an hour.

Little Out of Jail.
Mrs. Lizzie Maxwell, of No. 122 Broadway, who was sentenced to 20 days in the county jail on a charge of being a disorderly person at East Kingston, was later in the day released from custody on an order from Judge Mooney, who had remitted her sentence.

The Vly School Condemned.
It is understood that the state department of education at Albany has condemned the school house at The Vly and that orders to that effect will shortly be received. This will mean that a new school house will have to be built at that place.

Training the Child.
A child's mind and spirit will be sweeter and more sympathetic for a knowledge of music. It is as natural for a child to sing as it is for the child to talk. Given the knowledge of music's rhythm the child will easily slip into dancing, one of the best arts for giving grace and poise of carriage.

Odd Phrases.

KINGSTON, N. Y., SEPT. 10, 1915.

The German Government's note regarding the sinking of the Arabic justifies the suspicion that all its dealings with our Government are insincere. In spite of the statement of Graf von Bernstorff that the submarine commanders were instructed not to attack liners it appears that they are authorized to do so when they "become convinced" that the said liners are going to attack them. It is well known that the average man can easily convince himself of anything whatever that it is convenient or agreeable for him to believe. Consequently, we may expect this particular belief to descend upon every submarine commander who sights a ship. Germany takes the position that she is not bound to pay indemnity for American lives destroyed with the Arabic, although she offers to arbitrate this point on condition that "the arbitral decision shall not be permitted to have the importance of a general decision on the permissibility or the converse under international law of German submarine warfare." Why not? No one can doubt that Germany, despite all the reports to the contrary, intends to continue her obnoxious practices, letting each separate offense become the subject of what is practically a lawsuit. This is an intolerable plan, and our Government cannot honorably acquiesce. We don't want indemnities. We don't want our citizens killed while they are about their lawful business.

The dismissal of Ambassador Dumba is a good beginning in the national house-cleaning which is so badly needed, but it is only a beginning. Secretary Lansing's note asserts that Dumba conspired to injure the business of this country. Now, a man cannot conspire alone. There are others who are as despicable as he is of disgrace and punishment. Secretary Lansing doubtless knows what he is talking about, and it is not conceivable that he will let the other scoundrels go scotchless. A good many citizens of foreign extraction have committed acts which are so close to treason that it is hard to tell the difference, if there is any. We are a good-natured people and as a whole are disposed to let other folk do almost anything, but there is a limit which they cannot safely overstep. If they do, our good nature disappears and we swing to the opposite extreme of emotion.

From the standpoint of national politics the change whereby the Russian Grand Duke Nicholas has been sent to command the Russian forces in the Caucasus and the Czar has taken over supreme command of the land and naval forces in Russia, will have an important effect on popular feeling throughout the Russian Empire. No matter how successful the Grand Duke proved himself in conducting a retreat which in the face of overwhelming odds against him prevented his army from being exterminated the fact that he was compelled to retreat and that Russian territory has been lost must have the inevitable result of disheartening his countrymen, with whom he must lose credit for his failure to stem the German military tide. Russia's admitted shortage of ammunition is often overlooked. The Czar is the Little Father to every Russian except the Nihilists and Socialists, who are in a sense his own military. A theory may not be great, but the fact that the Little Father is in personal command of his forces must lead to a certain inspiring enthusiasm, even if subsequent events prove that confidence was misplaced. Should Russia be shorted of herself in a position to take on troops with the ammunition they need, any Russian successes will tend to strengthen popular faith in the ability of the Little Father to guard his people.

An interlocking device for attaching to telephone instruments on party lines whereby messages can be heard only by the persons carrying on the conversations ought to become popular, but it won't. Can anyone imagine the party-line rubberneck who now insists on lifting the receiver and listening whenever another party's number is called coming into existence over the news that this source of innocent pleasure is to be removed? As well might the habitual scandal monger be expected to become happy and contented in solitary confinement. What right has any selfish inventor to invade the Ellysian fields wherein the happy telephone rubberneck nuisance gets daily enjoyment and nourishment? There ought to be a law whereby such inventors could be punished.

DISAPPOINTMENTS:

(By Our Woman Editor.)

When we think of some of the things that are allowed to disturb and upset our equanimity and the peace of those around us, and beside, to act as mirrors to betray the selves underneath, their triviality and fleeting importance are too absurd to lead to the display.

The foolish nature of the incident makes it scarcely worth recording, but it is the small things that make up the day and indicate character, and this little happening has many a parallel in many a home—and in many an office, many a shop, if the wording be changed just a bit.

A product of the milliner's art was sent home for the approval of the purchaser. It met her distinct disapproval; and disappointment, dislike of the work, growing anger, whatever you like, soon culminated in a torrent of words and the impulsive loss of the innocent but offending hat to a far corner of the room, where it lay in a crumpled, undignified heap.

When the first violent shadow blew over and inventory was taken of ruffled feathers and ruffled temper, nothing had suffered quite so much as the real culprit, who had allowed her day to be spoiled, her weakness revealed and her friends badly shocked, all by a simple disappointment which the following day easily remedied.

Asheamed of the display, disgusted with herself and a few things else? Yes, very; and quite ready to promise to her own repentant self, "never again." But that did not help very much at the time, in the way of saving her dignity; and, alas! it did not help in the future.

It is delightful to meet folk who are big enough, strong enough not to show the white feather in the face of defeat. A cheery "better luck next time!" is almost worth the price of disaster, and its influence is wonderful upon all who are fortunate enough to come under its magic spell.

There are men and women courageous like that, and sometimes the disappointments that have come to them have been the stepping-stones upon which they have traveled to success. But they have not stopped to grieve and to nurse wounds received in the past.

To be touched by the blight of disappointment is human; to be overcome is fatal to all hope of progress, else the whole world would be wandering in the darkness of ignorance and small accomplishments. Higher education for women and widened opportunities for work would still remain among the dreams for the future, if some of the early workers had allowed the first bitter disappointments, the first rebuffs and the first sharp "no" to send them back in their corners, defeated and forever subdued. But they had the pluck and determination to look refusal and defeat squarely in the face and not fall down at the first hard blow; nor at the second, the third, the many that came after.

And, to me, it is stimulating to know that the big figures in history, and in life as it runs, have stumbled their way to the top, unmindful of the disappointments, the bruises, the disasters that marked every inch of their progress. And it is a pity that we, looking on, reading on, in our lesser ways, cannot learn to refuse to be disappointed; that is, beyond the vague shadow that must obtrude itself momentarily in the face of a door violently closed upon some special longing.

Looking back, the things "over which we grieved with lashes wet," seem very inconsequential now—not the sorrows that pulled at the heart, but the little things that, when they came at the time, the hats that were wrong, the small plans that fell through in spite of our best planning and hence disappointments like that.

And beside, as James Whitcomb Riley phrases it, in his "Just Be Glad":

"What we've missed" of calm we couldn't have, you know—
And why cannot, why do not, we show ourselves "chatter" than our little foe and not be engulfed by disappointments that greater, stronger minds ignore or, at least, set aside?"

NEW TANGLE IN MARBLETOWNSCHOOL

Trustee Resigns and Now It Is Claimed Repairs Made to Ancient Landmark Were Not Properly Authorized.

Another angle to the famous Marbletown School District No. 3 tangle has developed with the resignation of Judge Sidney Myers as a member of the board of trustees of the school with the request that it be accepted immediately. It is rumored that the Judge's action is due to the unsettled condition of the school question in that district.

Some time ago a man named Brown, who has a farm on the state road in that district, wrote a letter to the state board of education at Albany, stating that the school was unfit to keep hogs in. This led to a visit to the school by an inspector from the state department.

While the question of whether it would be necessary to build a new school or repair the old one was still unsettled, the matter being left open until a final report was received from the state department, some one engaged G. L. Keator, the efficient carpenter of Marbletown, who with several assistants, went ahead and made repairs to the school building amounting in all, it is said, to nearly $100. The repairs were completed in time for the opening of school on Tuesday in charge of Miss Ida DuBois of Sundown, who had been engaged as teacher by the school trustees.

Any plans for the repair of an old school building must be approved by the state department, the same as plans for a new building, but the plans for the repairs of the Marbletown school were not submitted to the state department for approval but the work of repairing the school went ahead just the same.

It is not thought unlikely that orders condemning the old school may be received by the trustees at any time from Albany, making it necessary to erect a new school, and in that case it undoubtedly means that the ones who ordered the repairs on the old school will have to foot the bill.

The school tangle has furnished an agreeable morsel for the cracker-box stagers in that district. Judge Myers, whose resignation was received this morning, has been an efficient member of the trustees for several years.

The school is located on the state road leading from Kingston to Ellenville and was built in 1832. Judge Parker, who visited the school thirty years ago, expressed the opinion at that time that the building should be preserved.

Social Center Classes.

There was an important meeting of the Social Center Association held in the Social Center rooms at the Federation House Thursday afternoon. Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, chairman, presiding. The meeting was held during the coming year, if the Federation House for that length of time. At present the activities which are being carried on at the Federation House are the Social Center classes of sewing and wood work or chair raring; the Lindsley Club (Boys); the Day Nursery and the children's clinic. Arrangements were made providing leaders for sewing classes for Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Saturdays and it was thought that it would be possible to secure leaders for the classes for the other two days, so that the Social Center work will go on, as far as the classes are concerned, as formerly.

But the co-operation of many of the Federation women as well as of those actually associated with the Social Center Association will be needed for several teachers are needed for each class as these sewing classes are large and the children need careful supervision if good results are to be obtained. Anyone willing to help for any afternoon in the week, every week, every two weeks or every month, should send their name, etc., to Mrs. Fessenden, the chairman of the Social Center Association. The children's clinic will continue and the Day Nursery will also be carried on though possibly under slightly different manner of operating.

Mr. and Mrs. Everet Rider of Greenkill avenue and Mr. and Mrs. George Herdman of Washington avenue are receiving congratulations over the birth of sons at the maternity annex of the Wauna Sanitarium. In each case both mother and son are doing nicely.

Missing Rig Recovered.
The rig owned by Charles Wentworth of West Hurley, which was taken from Kelley's shed on North Front street on Thursday, was later found under the shed of E. Merriher on that street. The rig was recovered by Policeman Simpson. Who took it from the Kelley shed, has not yet been learned.

Fire at Greenfield.
The Seven Gables hotel at Greenfield was threatened by fire on Tuesday evening when a large lamp exploded and set fire to the dining room carpet. By quick work on the part of the guests the burning lamp was thrown out and no light damage done to the building.

ELLENVILLE

Ellenville, Sept. 10.—John R. Hunt, one of Ellenville's best known and highly respected citizens, celebrated his 50th birthday on Wednesday and was tendered a genuine surprise reception by his many friends in the lecture room of the M. E. church in the evening at the close of the prayer service of which Mr. Hunt is a regular attendant. The room was made beautiful with its large bouquets of flowers, and as Mr. Hunt entered the room for service, attracted his attention. The Rev. W. H. Moser, with congregation, sang appropriate hymns. Prayers were offered and then Dr. Mosher in well chosen words announced to Mr. Hunt that the flowers were in the room in honor of his birthday. Mr. Hunt arose and responded very feelingly and most lovingly appreciating it all. At this time many more friends entered the room until the room was well filled and then Dr. Mosher called upon the Rev. E. E. Count, D. D. to address the friends. Dr. Count delivered to Mr. Hunt, and to those assembled to congratulate their friend, very excellent words, and told in part the high regard he had always entertained for this man, who reached the four score mark, Dr. Count having known Mr. Hunt from childhood. At the conclusion Dr. Mosher invited Uriah E. Terwilliger to make some remarks, which he did, in very beautiful and well chosen words, paid a high tribute to his life-long, much loved and prized friend. At the conclusion all friends arose and in order went to the front of the room to greet Mr. Hunt with a hand shake and hearty congratulations, and then all were invited to be seated and a committee of ladies in charge served ice cream and cake, and a pleasant social hour followed. Mr. Hunt's Sunday school class of young ladies presented him with a bouquet of 80 asters. A large shower of birthday postals were sent him through the mail. Mrs. John MacGlosson of Poughkeepsie came on to be present at her uncle's birthday, bringing as a token eighty very beautiful tea roses in a bouquet, and there were other expressions of love for this dear friend by way of letters and flowers. It is the earnest wish of all friends that Mr. Hunt may be spared for many birthdays yet to come.

Rolled in Fresh Cigarettes
the World Over

"Bull" Durham introduced a distinctive form of tobacco enjoyment to discriminating smokers throughout the world—popularized the present smart fashion and now universally accepted custom of rolling one's own cigarettes with this pure, mellow tobacco, to meet individual requirements of taste that can be satisfied in no other way.

GENUINE
"BULL" DURHAM
SMOKING TOBACCO

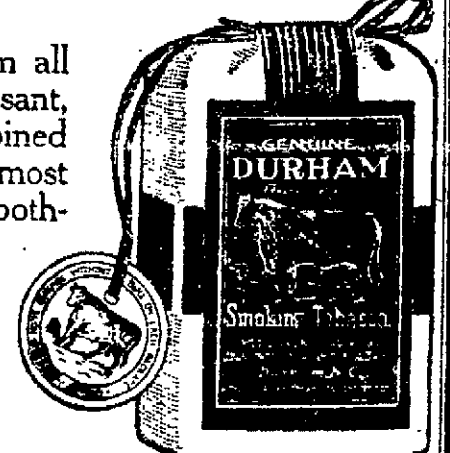

The millions of "Bull" Durham smokers are men of wide tobacco experience. They have used tobacco in many forms. They prefer "Bull" Durham in fresh, hand-made cigarettes above all—because of the supreme tobacco satisfaction and wholesome, lasting enjoyment insured by "rolling their own."

"Bull" Durham is distinguished from all other tobaccos by its wonderfully pleasant, unique aroma. This fresh fragrance is combined in "Bull" Durham cigarettes with the most delightful mildness, mellowness and smoothness—a smoke of unusual character.

FREE An Illustrated Booklet, showing correct way to "Roll Your Own" Cigarettes, and a package of cigarette papers, will both be mailed, free, to any address in U. S. on request. Address "Bull" Durham, Durham, N. C.

The FREEMAN'S Want Columns is the best medium for those who have property for sale, rooms to rent or articles of any description for exchange as the circulation of The Freeman is beyond the reach of all the other city and country papers. Cent-a-Word

Sources of Rivers.

The great majority of the first class rivers commence from chains of mountains, because springs are there most abundant perpetually fed by the melting of the snows and glaciers. They have almost invariably an easterly direction, the westward bound streams being few in number, and of very subordinate rank. Of rivers flowing east, we have grand examples in the St. Lawrence, Ottawa, Amazon, Danube, Ganges, Amour, Yangtze-Kiang and Hoang Ho.

Of Course.

"With people cooking with electricity, one can no longer heap coals of fire." Never fear. Assuredly they will perfect an electrical apparatus which will answer the same purpose.—Lonsville Courier Journal

His New Job.

"I've got a new job. I'm a barber at a soda fountain." "A barber at a soda fountain?" "Yes. I shave the ice."—New York World

Velvet for Cleaning.

A small piece of velvet is a fine cleaner for brass, and for polishing silverware it is better than chamolis. It quickly removes the dust from woodwork, and if used to rub the stove after it has been blacked will produce a high polish. There is nothing better to dust a felt hat. Silk dresses and other silk articles should always be dusted with it, for it cleans perfectly without cutting or otherwise injuring the silk.

Present Day Testers.

If wishes were horses, beggars would still prefer limousines.—Washington Times

Where Scotland Joins England.

The width of the island of Great Britain at the point of contact between England and Scotland is about sixty miles. The river Tweed divides the two countries for a few miles at the east, and the Cheviot hills serve as a boundary for the greater part of the rest of the distance.

Quite So.

"Here somebody says that electric currents can be made to take the place of food in sustaining life." "What a shocking theory!"—Baltimore American

I could live just the stuff to try the soul's strength on.—Browning.

The Thriftiest Parson.

A supreme example of thrift was the Rev. Robert Walker—the "Wonderful Walker." For the greater part of his life Walker was curate of Leather-waithe, Cumberland, commencing there with a stipend of £3 per annum. His wife brought him a fortune of £40, and on the interest of this and his £5 annually Walker reared a family of eight. When after twenty years his stipend was raised to £17 10s. a year he continued to save. And not only did the family "live well, though plainly," but as he declared with justifiable pride, his children never lacked any of the necessities of life and were given an education to fit them for any rank of society, the boys, indeed, going to one of the universities.—London Standard.

Real Life.

In Russia, because the peasants have no books to read, they are all forced to read the book of nature.

HEAD OF WALL STREET

Stolen Thunder.

"Stealing another man's thunder" is a phrase that has become a household word. It is a phrase that is often used to describe a person who is trying to outdo another person in a particular field. In the case of the late John Dennis, a minor poet, the phrase was used to describe a certain clergyman who was officiating at a funeral of a wealthy paragon. He was particularly anxious to show his good feeling and sympathy; so at a critical moment during the funeral services, he turned to the congregation and said: "Dearly beloved, many a time I have dandled this corpse upon my knee."

Out of the Mouths of Babies.

Little Edith had been to a picnic, and a sleeper miss was never put to bed. As her mother finished undressing her she said: "Mamma, I said my prayers at supper to save time."

Not Just What He Meant.

The possessor of unfeeling tact is a fortunate being. Sometimes even a person of great experience will, however, in distress, say the wrong thing. A certain clergyman was officiating at a funeral of a wealthy paragon. He was particularly anxious to show his good feeling and sympathy; so at a critical moment during the funeral services, he turned to the congregation and said: "Dearly beloved, many a time I have dandled this corpse upon my knee."

EDWARD H. CRUMP.

CITIZENS MOVE TO OUST MEMPHIS MAYOR.

Mayor L. H. Crump of Memphis, Tenn.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 10—Allegation that no honest effort has been made to enforce the law against liquor selling and gambling, that the system of assessing fines is nothing short of graft; that the administration has subsidized Z. N. Estes, attorney general, to thwart justice and law enforcement, and that such discrepancies exist in the city's accounts as to warrant an audit of the books "by a capable and honest auditing company," twelve freedmen, two more than necessary, have filed a bill in chancery to cast from office Mayor E. H. Crump.

Police Commissioner R. A. Utley and Inspector of Police O. H. Perry.

The law permitting the filing of such a bill was enacted by the state legislature last June.

The bill alleges that since January 29 there have been many saloons in operation in Memphis in violation of the state laws, and that gambling houses have been run under official protection.

Idea Comparatively Old.

That a patent for a screw-propelled steam vessel had been issued as far back as 1803 recently was discovered by the French patent office.

CITY WINS O'REILLY ASSESSMENT CASE

Judge Cochran has handed down a decision in the case of Cecelia B. O'Reilly against the City of Kingston, in which Mrs. O'Reilly sought by injunction to restrain the city from proceeding with the sale of her property on Andrew street, Lavan street and Mary's avenue to satisfy the claim of the city for special assessments for improving such streets, or from collecting such assessment.

The case in various forms has been in the courts for seven years. It has been before the court of appeals once and as a result of the decision of that court the legislature was called on to pass an act under which the special assessment could be collected.

Under Judge Cochran's decision, the city of Kingston is entitled to proceed with the sale of Mrs. O'Reilly's property unless she pays the amount of the special assessment, which amounts to over $4,000, with interest for a number of years.

Improvements Made Long Ago.

The improvements for which the special assessments were levied were for grading Andrew street, Lavan street and Mary's avenue, and for the construction of a sewer through the three streets.

Ordinances providing for grading Andrew street were adopted by the common council in 1888, 1900 and again in 1903, the latter being adopted in answer to a petition for changing the grade. No grading was done under any of these ordinances. The 1903 ordinance was passed in June, and in September of the same year another ordinance was passed for the same purpose and repealing former ordinances. No grading was done under this ordinance. In October, 1903, the city engineer reported that two of the ordinances were conflicting, where upon the common council passed still another ordinance repealing all ordinances, or parts of ordinances inconsistent with it.

In June, 1903, the common council passed an ordinance establishing the grade of Mary's avenue from O'Reilly street to Ohio street, and in August of the same year an ordinance was passed establishing the grade of Lavan street, which was followed by an ordinance for grading curbing, guttering and flagging that street. The grading of Mary's avenue was provided for by an ordinance adopted in September, 1902, when the common council also passed an ordinance for the construction of a sewer in a portion of Mary's avenue, Andrew street and Lavan street.

The contract for the work of grading the three streets as provided in the various ordinances and for constructing a sewer through them was awarded by the common council on October 16, 1903, to John O'Reilly, for $9,929. Mr. O'Reilly is a son of Mrs. Cecelia B. O'Reilly, who became one of the sureties on his bond. The work was completed the following year, 1904, the total cost, including extra work, engineering expenses, inspector, etc., amounting to $10,788.42. The contract price, and $16.83 for extra work, was paid to Mr. O'Reilly in August, 1904, and on October 21 following the common council ordered a special assessment for the cost of the work. The special assessment, which was for 75 per cent of the cost of the work, amounted to $8,091.33, and on January 29, 1905, the certificates of assessment were presented to the common council. Four corrected certificates of special assessment were presented to the council in April, 1905, and confirmed on April 21.

After the special assessments had been confirmed, Mrs. O'Reilly began certain proceedings to review the assessments and after a long fight in the courts the special assessments were declared null and void by the court of appeals.

What The Court of Appeals Said.

In its decision setting aside the assessments of the court of appeals said:

"While the law requires this adjudication the result will be unjust to the taxpayer should escape taxation altogether for her property for her property upon Andrew street and Mary's avenue is apparently benefited more than all the other properties upon those streets taken together. The city however may have a remedy for it. The legislature in the first place could have authorized everything to be done as it has been done, a curative act may be passed which will prevent the injustice of throwing the entire expense of these useful improvements upon the city at large."

As the result of the decision of the court of appeals, an act was prepared by Philip Elting then corporation counsel, and passed by the legislature in 1905, and validating the acts of the mayor, common council and assessor in relation to the grading and sewer, and on February 7, 1905, more than three years after the assessment had first been confirmed, the common council again confirmed the special assessment filed by the assessor and directed that a warrant be issued for its collection.

Mrs. O'Reilly failed to pay the special assessment and the city treasurer proceeded to advertise it for sale when Mrs. O'Reilly began the present suit to set aside the assessments and procure an injunction restraining the sale of her property.

At one time there appeared to be a prospect of settlement of the suit, the basis of which was to be an adjustment of Mrs. O'Reilly's claim against the city for the use of crushed stone taken from other property owned by her, which was to offset the city's claim for the special assessment. An affidavit made by Judge N. Frank O'Reilly sets up such an agreement, but Mayor Irving, with whom the agreement was claimed to have been made, has made an affidavit denying any agreement.

Judge Cochran's Decision.

The case was tried before Judge Cochran some time ago in this city. On the trial of the case before him the principal question raised on behalf of Mrs. O'Reilly was that the city had reached its constitutional debt limit when the contract was made by John O'Reilly and had no right to enter into the contract with him.

Judge Cochran's opinion, which is set out in full in the decision, is as follows:

"I do not think the constitutional question of debt limitation of the city is involved in this action. The contract complained of has been executed and the city has paid the entire contract price and the indebtedness, whether right or wrong, has thereby been created. What the city is now seeking to do is to recover 75 per cent of that indebtedness from the property owners benefited by the improvements. Such action on the part of the city does not increase its indebtedness but diminishes it. The constitutional provision is for the protection of the municipality and may be invoked in its aid but not as here to its detriment. Whether or not the original contract price was void because it exceeded the constitutional debt limitation of the city is therefore immaterial. The other questions raised by the plaintiff are not tenable."

"The complaint should therefore be dismissed with costs."

Judge N. Frank O'Reilly has represented Mrs. O'Reilly in the litigation since its beginning. For the past two years and in the trial of the present suit the city has been represented by Corporation Counsel Brinrier.

If This Is Your Birthday

SEPTEMBER 10

The woman of this birthdate must be careful to guard against criticism and fault finding. While the nature is discriminating it is easily led into the serious fault of disliking people and things for a trivial cause. This tendency to find flaws and look for faults is strong both with men and women of this birthdate. There is a strong love for social position and sometimes a woman of this birthdate will make great sacrifices in order to gain a place in high society, sacrificing even her best friends on the altar of her self-love and vanity.

The governing sign is Virgo and the planet is Venus. Sympathy and love are both dominant in this nature, but are self-centered. The Freeman Want Ads will offer good automobile bargains in the coming week.

ADVERTISEMENT WRITING.

ADVERTISEMENTS, Booklets, Circulars, etc., as I prepare them, are the best that raises your sales. They are well worked together with selling phrases and "catch words" which are the best of persuasion, and contain the salient points of your business in a way that shortens time and emphasizes success. Don't get the idea that everything that is said about advertising is advertising, and remember that advertising which brings results is not a gallop of imagination driven by an amateur writer or an "expert" clerk. Let me help you. George M. Zellmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 10.—Some of the room traders on the assumption that the diplomatic developments at Washington would unsettle security holdings, sold leading stocks at concessions at the beginning of business, on the stock exchange this morning.

Opening sales showed losses ranging from fractions to over a point. Union Pacific and Steel common were pressed for sale for a short period, but it soon became apparent that there was no supply of stocks outside of the board room floor and vigorous upward movements were quickly in order.

Bethlehem Steel advanced 11 points in the first few minutes trading, carrying its price up to the new high record of 335.

Steel common, which sold at the opening of 75 at 84 quickly rallied to 75. Third Avenue was strong from the start, advancing 1½ to 75½. Crucible Steel declined 1½ to 89½ and then rose to 91.

Union Pacific made a gain of ¾ to 63¾. The action of Erie was regarded with a good deal of favor by the speculative element that stock with an advance of ½ selling at 30¾. Union Pacific opened off 1½ at 129½ and then recovered to 130. A decline of ¼ in Reading to 150½ was followed by a quick rally to 151¼.

Trading became quiet in the late forenoon and price movements were comparatively narrow, except in a few issues. Bethlehem declined ½ to 334½ and Crucible Steel was off ½ to 90¾.

Some foreign selling of Erie, Union Pacific and Steel common caused these issues to decline slightly. Third Avenue was in good demand, selling around 57. American Woolen was active and strong, advancing three points to 43½, and then receding to 41½. Mexican Petroleum was active, selling at 87½, a gain of 2½ points net. Money loaning at 1½ per cent.

The market was under pressure in the late afternoon. United States Steel sold down to 74½ against 76½ at the close yesterday. Third Avenue declined a point to 58¾ and Crucible showed a 2 point loss for the day. Mexican Petroleum declined 1½ to 86, against 85 at the close yesterday.

The market closed unsettled; government bonds unchanged, other bonds steady.

MEKKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Sept. 10.—The heavy-weight battlers are becoming quite the rage again and they are sure to have a busy winter.

A year ago a "white hope" had quite a job sparring a match at any decent guarantee. The market was glutted with them—and the public was tired of seeing them wallow around the ring like seafish elephants. But the yearning of the fans to see some husky developed to a point where he'd have a chance against Jess Willard has caused the heavyweights to become the vogue again.
Frank Moran and Jim Coffey are expected to engage in a fighting contest late in the fall and about the same time Charlie Weinert, the "knock-out" kid from Newark, N. J., and Gunboat Smith will settle their differences. The winner of those fights then will meet to decide which one shall meet Jess Willard—provided Jess can be coaxed into the ring.

Darcy Outgrowing Division.

Lee Darcy, middleweight champion of Australia, plans an early visit to the U. S. A. for the purpose of soaking some of our middleweights on the jaw or on other vulnerable parts. But unless Darcy casts anchor here, he may not carry out his purpose, as he may outgrow the middleweight division within a few months.

Darcy is only 19—and he's growing every day. That means extra weight. The limit for his division is 160 pounds and Darcy has put on so much bulk in the last month or two that he'd have quite a job now making 160.

Kilbane Sensitive About Legs.

Johnny Kilbane is just as sensitive concerning his legs—in the uncovered state—as is Vern Castle; that is when ladies are around. Johnny has legs that are the superlatives of skin and Johnny hates to display them in the presence of ladies.

Several times during his workouts for important bouts his manager, Jimmy Dunn, arranged a "Ladies Day" at his camp, but Johnny always after the veto to such plans because he said the business of displaying the pedals, whose nimbleness have won him a fortune, is embarrassing to him and the embarrassed feeling affects my work.
"Californiaans yearn for the return of pugilism in their state. The fans have been disconsolate since the legislators ruled out the professional battlers and a movement is now afoot to put up a boxing bill to the new legislature, one that calls for 20 round decision bouts.

What Happened to Freddie?

And, in the meantime, we pause to ask:

"Where is Frederick?"
Begins to look as if Frederick is sick, or dead, or afflicted with spavin or something like that. Otherwise, wouldn't Frederick be jumping hither and thither gathering in a crop of gold for treating the fans to a dancing exhibition?Last reports had it that Welsh was somewhere along the Pacific Coast "resting up." That expression has a funny sound for New Yorkers who saw Frederick in action around these parts during the past year.
One rests after one grows tired but the New Yorkers cannot understand what made Frederick tired unless it was the job of counting his rapidly growing hoard. Surely Frederick couldn't have grown tired through fighting around New York, because the fans are sure he never fought here.
